INJUNCTION STANDS

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAYS COURT ORDER WILL STAND

Dispels Hope Of Labor Leaders That They Might Regain Directing Power

Indications Are That Miners Leaders In Receptive Frame of Mind Regarding Arbitration

COAL SUPPLY QUARTER NORMAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—The federal government today rebuffed the suggestion of labor leaders that the coal strike would be ended if the Indianapolis injunction against it were vacated. Denouncing the strike as a violation of law Assistant Attorney General Ames announced the government's determination to proceed against it in the court as long as it continues. His statement came in direct response to one from Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, who declared that if the injunction were vacated he had an abiding faith that negotiations could be arranged between the strikers and operators. Gompers' statement was fully considered and the reply was made to his and other labor leaders' statements.

The government's announcement had a staggering effect on peace talk which has been going around in Washington for more than a day.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5—An unmistakable sentiment prevailed among those in close touch with the United Mine Workers headquarters here that the strike of coal miners would be of short duration, though nothing tangible for this belief could be found today. No proosal has been made by the Department of Labor toward lifting the restraining order on condition that the men would submit to the issue of the Federal Arbitration board. It was stated positively that union leaders here are strongly opposed to arbitration of this nature although it is not impossible that an arbitration offer might be accepted. Miners were waiting today for either the goernment or coal operators to start negotiations in motion. No indication that either the government or operators would do so could be discovered here.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Attorney General Palmer has declared that the government has not the slightest intention of vacating the coal strike injunction. This was in answer to reports that the government would receive from its action in the courts by way of conciliation to the miners for the opening of negotiations.

On the contrary the government will, at the hearing before Judge Anderson in Indianapolis Saturday urge vigorously that the strike be held illegal and that temporary restraining order be made permanent.

The government's position and intention to carry out this program was made clear in a letter from Attorney General Palmer in answer to a letter protesting against the government's proceedings.

Attorney General Palmer asserted that he is opposed to government by injunction, but points out the distinction in the coal strike case. He declared that the injunction is sought on the grounds that the strike is a violation of the food and fuel act, and that while individual criminal prosecutions and a vast number of civil actions for damages could be instituted, the government has chosen to settle the issue in the court at Indianapolis. Then he said:

"I assume that the miners are law-abiding citizens and that they do not intend nor desire to disobey the laws of the United States. If the strike is unlawful the courts will so adjudge. If it is lawful, the courts will so adjudge. The government has submitted itself to the jurisdiction of the court in order that this issue may be decided.

"It has placed itself upon terms of equality with its citizens in order that there may be an official decision of the legal proposition involved. You will of course agree with me that the law of the land must be obeyed, and that there are no organizations, great or small, that is superior to the law of the land.

By RALPH S. COUCH
United Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—The coal strike has reduced two-thirds the nation's fuel supply according to reports received here today. Vice President Morrow of the National Coal Association estimated that the bituminous production now totaled approximately four million tons a week in spite of the walk out of 425,000 miners. This he said is about one-third of the nation's normal production.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor declared that if the injunction is vacated he felt sure that certain operators and striking miners would get together.

FIRST LEAGUE OF NATIONS MEETING IS SCHEDULED FOT CITY OF PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 5—The Supreme Council today decided the first meeting of the League of Nations will be held in Paris immediately after the peace treaty becomes effective.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In Italy.

Arriving at one of the most critical stages of the war, when the Teutons were forcing the Italian army back to the Piave, the American Red Cross rushed emergency relief from Paris and revived the drooping spirits of the whole country. In addition to furnishing rations and comforts and medical attention to the fighting men, the American Red Cross instituted 42 soup kitchens, 30 children's hospitals, 10 children's dispensaries, 14 artificial limb factories, five homes for refugee children, 10 rest stations for refugees.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

Clearfield should have some sort of a celebration of Armistice day, November 11th next. With that end in view all the citizens of Clearfield are requested to attend a meeting to be held in the Borough building on Market street Friday evening, November 7th, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of outlining a program of exercises and making the necessary arrangements for carrying same out.

Let every patriotic citizen attend Friday evening's meeting.

JOHN M. CHASE,
Burgess.

BOY TRIPLETS BORN TO PAIR IN RUSH TOWNSHIP

Hundreds of persons have visited the home of Phil Lamancusa, at Newtown, Rush township, to see the three bright little strangers which arrived there recently. The triplets are boys and weigh between five and six pounds each. The mother and three babes are getting along finely. Dr. Lynn, of this place, was the attending physician.—Philipsburg Journal.

NEVLING—BROWN

Clifford M. Nevling and Manilla Brown, both of Smoke Run, were united in marriage at noon today by Rev. Snavely, at the West Side M. E. parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Nevling are a popular couple of Smoke Run, and their many friends wish them much success in their wedded life.

CLASS 17 NOTICE

Class 17 of the Trinity M. E. church will hold their business meeting at Mrs. A. C. Davis' home on Nichols street, Thursday evening at eight o'clock sharp. All members requested to be present.

Mrs. A. E. Lester and daughter, Mrs. William Bentz, left today for a month's visit in Brooklyn, N. Y.

"AMERICA" IN THE SALON DE PARIS.—A painting, that is attracting a great deal of attention in the Salon de Paris is the one entitled "America" by René Aral. The painting typifies the spirit of the United States in uncovering the war and shows the figure of an American "Doughboy" supporting a wounded French Poilu. The American, his face toned with the expression of the battle spirit, is defying the enemy.

DARING AUTHORESS WHO DENOUNCES MORMONISM

THE first journey to America of the brilliant English novelist, Mrs. Theodore Cory, who writes under the pen name of "Winifred Graham," will be made particularly to address the Third World's Christian Citizenship Conference at Pittsburgh, November 9 to 16.

Daringly frank in her discussion of striking topics, "Winifred Graham" has made an enviable reputation among twentieth century English novelists. As the writer of thirty-two books having a world wide circulation and as a social leader her expected presence in Pittsburgh is attracting the attention of the literary and social elite.

"Winifred Graham" is the author of a new boldly venturesome novel regarding the court life of the Kaiser, bearing the title, "The Imperial Malefactor." But she is best known as the author of books taking their themes from Mormon passions and polygamy—among these are, "Ezra, the Mormon," and the "Love Story of a Mormon."

"Winifred Graham" is chairman of a World Commission studying Mormonism. She will read her report at the Third World's Christian Citizenship Conference, which has been called by the National Reform Association.

WINIFRED GRAHAM

Wednesday, November 12, will be largely devoted to the discussion of Mormonism, and the new polygamy coming out of the war will be one of the themes at a great woman's mass meeting to be held November 14 at Syria Mosque, the central meeting place of the World Conference.

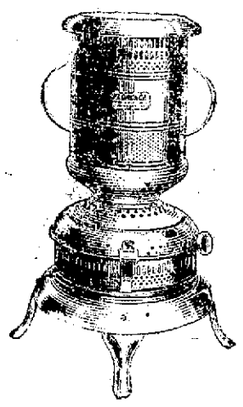
Florence Oil Heaters



Heat plus beauty—

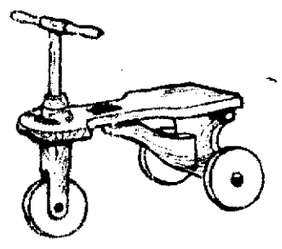
There are four big reasons why the Portable Oil Heater is just the heater you need this winter to make chilly corners comfortable.

(1) The Florence gives generous heat.

(2) Scientific construction makes the Florence strong and sturdy.

(3) It is the most beautiful heater ever made.

(4) It is the most economical, as it gives maximum heat for every drop of oil. Notice the graceful harmonious line of the curved fire bowl. There is a practical purpose behind this besides just to delight the eye. This gives a bigger heating or radiating surface. This means more heat for less money.



There is no reason why any boy or girl should be without a Kiddie Kar this Christmas. It is the one universal vehicle for little boys and girls of all ages.

Kiddie Kar was first built by a father for his child. It is not a grown up's idea of what a child would like, but a simple convenience which satisfies a natural instinct of the child.

Made in five sizes.

$1.25 to $3.50

There is only one genuine Kiddie Kar. We sell it.

SPORT NOTES

Atheletic relations have again been renewed with our neighbors, Bellefonte, and old C. H. S. is working hard to beat them. The team was out on Thursday, working like wood choppers, to beat the small college team over yonder. The Bellefonte High School team is on an equal with C. H. S. and therefore a good game is predicted. The team as a whole is in splendid condition for this game, except Captain Butler, who has a carbuncle in the back of his neck. There are probabilities that he may not be able to play, but on account of that fact, the team is working so much harder to have just as strong a team without him as if he were able to play. Two weeks ago the team defeated the husky Mt. Union High School without the captain playing with them, and are sure they can do the same thing again on Saturday. Some new plays are being introduced to the team by the coach and old ones put on the reserve list. The Bellefonte High School game may be called the biggest game of the season, so everyone come out and see your old enemy go to defeat.

The game will be called at three o'clock sharp.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

SIR DAVID DUCK.

"David Duck,' said Daddy, "was such a proud duck and he strutted and quacked so much that everyone in the barnyard called him Sir David Duck.

"One day, not long ago, Sir David Duck, quacked and quacked and wobbled about and made a great fuss. All the ducks came around, as did most of the other barnyard creatures.

"'What is it that you have to say, Sir David?' they all asked him. 'Have you something to tell us, Sir David?'

"Now Sir David was very fond of his title. He liked to be called by such a name and have all the barnyard creatures think he was very fine.

"'Yes, I have something to tell you,' said Sir David. 'All gather around me and I will tell what I have to tell. The news has just reached me. I heard some men talking. I heard them and I listened, and that is always a very sensible thing to do. Ears weren't given creatures to see with any more than mouths were given people or creatures to hear with.'

"All the creatures looked at each other and said,

"'Oh, isn't Sir David so very, very wise?'

"He nodded as if he agreed with them and continued,

"'Yes, I listen when I hear and I hear when I listen, and I eat when I take food and I take food when I eat. I speak with my voice and walk with my legs and feet.'

"'Very interesting, very interesting,' said the other creatures of the barnyard.

"'And I heard these two people talking as I have already begun to tell you.'

"'Listen,' they all said, 'Sir David is about to tell us his story.'

"'These two people were men, both were men, for when I say two were men it means the same as when I say both were men.'

"'How very wise,' said the other barnyard creatures, 'he has more than one way of expressing himself.'

"'One was a young man and the other was a young man, and two young men mean two young men, they don't mean an old man. You might think, creatures, that one young man and another young man added together would make one old man, but it doesn't, no it doesn't. Young men don't go together like that.'

"I Heard Some Men Talking."

"'How wisely he talks,' said the barnyard creatures. So, as they liked whatever he said, and as they thought he was so fine Sir David thought so too and went on saying the most ridiculous things as though they were splendid and never became any smarter because no one ever said,

"'It's jolly to hear what you have to say, but it's not so very clever.'

"'Well,' continued Sir David, 'these two young men told of a duck they had seen like me. It had been a make-believe duck, one made out of board or wood or some such thing and it was supposed to be a wild duck.

"'Of course they knew I wasn't a wild duck and they knew they mustn't harm me. But for a moment I felt a little bit worried until I saw that they thought it was funny that this make-believe duck hadn't been better made, and that they knew while we might look alike, that I was a tame duck and that no one could harm me.

"'But the point of my story is that this make-believe duck was in a sporting shop where it was sitting on the end of a canoe and that this sporting shop was advertising to sell guns and things to catch ducks who would come and sit on the end of canoes.

"'The foolish thing to my mind was that people could get up such silly things and could believe that ducks ever would come and sit on the end of a canoe where there was a man and a gun and would say,

"'Pray shoot me, good people.'

"'These two young men merely thought it was funny that I looked so much like the make-believe duck, but I though to myself,

"'There are some creatures who don't understand our cousins, the wild ducks, if they think they sit around on canoes waiting to be shot. Ah, if those sporting shops (though I wouldn't work for one) really wanted brains used in advertising they should employ me!'"

Good roads have become a necessity, not only on the public and main highways, but on the township lines as well.

Road Building Is Simple.

Road building is absurdly simple. Just two things are required—money and brains. And the more brains you use, the less money you need.

Entered at Post Office at Clearfield, Pa., as second class matter.

The results of yesterday's election were not unexpected and there was little element of surprise in any of the districts. While it is true that there was an overwhelming Republican registration, the reason for this goes back to the national administration, with which everybody but the plum grabbers are thoroughly disgusted.

The suggestion of our burgess that Clearfield observe Armistice Day in some fitting manner is timely and appropriate. Let all good citizens turn out to the meeting called for Friday night when arrangements will be made for this occasion. It need not be any great big celebration but the day, November 11th, means so much to all of us and to the whole world that we should not let it pass unobserved.

More than one Clearfield county newspaper learned a lesson in the election held yesterday. The surprising part of it is that these newspapers are old in the business and yet they seem to think that they can elect their candidate by a campaign of vilification of the opponent rather than by presenting the good points of their own man. In Clearfield this kind of campaign was carried on against Dale and Chase yet both men stand at the top of the list as vote getters. In DuBois the same methods were used against Adam Haag the candidate for mayor with similar results. Using such methods in this enlightened age means that every knock is a boost so here is wishing that they keep up their work.

"CARRY ON"

It seems to us that in recent years the crusade against tuberculosis has been a most difficult task and that there is a decided lack of public interest in the problem. This may be due to the fact that our energies have been directed toward war-time activities or perhaps that we have nothing new or sensational to offer or add to our present methods of handling the tuberculosis as has been the case with other infectious diseases of shorter duration. But the fight against tuberculosis is still the world's conflict and there is none comparable to it in magnitude or fatality. The tubercle bacillus is still the same unrelenting, uncompromising enemy of both man and beast working every conceivable form of misery, poverty, sorrow, destruction and death.

Tuberculosis is potential dynamite acting without the "bang" and its destruction is not so spectacular.

The recent world war has revealed to us that from humanitarian and economic viewpoints we must readjust and reconstruct all our armaments in our fight against the great white plague. Untoward war and post-war conditions can only be compensated for by sincerely taking advantage of everything science really knows of recognized methods of treatment.

The post-mortem table has never perhaps given more decided proof of the curability of a disease than it gives of tuberculosis of the lungs. "No single element in the cure, neither air, nor food, nor medicine offers any guarantee of success; it is only the satisfaction of all the physiological and hygienic demands of the organism from the greatest to the least significant that can bring about this result." We must put our faith on the leucocyte as the scavenger of the blood and no chemical or pharmacological laboratory, no mechanical or electrical appliance has, as yet, succeeded in producing a single one. Rest, food, fresh air and the proper regulation of one's living are the factors that will place one in the most favorable position for the manufacture of his own anti-bodies and hence for with which to combat the disease.

Learn the principles and wherein they may apply to you and to members of your family. Get over the first line of defense by getting knowledge. One of the greatest opportunities ever offered will be the public health meeting to be held at the Clearfield High school on Thursday evening, November Thirteenth. Come interested to come to life and with the same get-acting spirit in everyone's patriotic duty to his fellowmen, as he takes up war work. Keep this date in your mind to be present.

HEALTH CHIEF OF STATE STRONGLY BACKS SEAL DRIVE

"The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and the state department of health are in thorough agreement and are working with the closest possible cooperation," says Dr. Edward Martin, state commissioner of health, in discussing the work of the society in connection with the Red Cross Seal Christmas drive.

"There is," he added, "a broad field for tuberculosis work in this state. Much has already been done to coordinate the various agencies in the field. If the State Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis did nothing more than assist in the separation of the children from contact with those suffering from tuberculosis, it would be performing a great service. The selling of Christmas seals is a sale in a deserving cause. The fight against tuberculosis needs many intelligent workers, home supervision and instruction, and, necessarily, much money."

White Plague's Ravages.

The deaths from tuberculosis in the United States average 1500 a week. Every three minutes some man, woman or child dies from the ravages, practically all the people who die in the United States are victims of tuberculosis. Yet practically all is preventable and Legal Protection.

CONSTRUCTION OF HEN HOUSE

More Fowls Can Be Kept on Small Floor Area Under Colony Than on Intensive System.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A house constructed for the convenience of the attendant will have enough cubic air space provided 2 to 5 square feet of floor space is allowed per fowl. Fresh air should be secured by ventilation rather than by furnishing a larger amount of cubic air space than is required for the convenience of the attendant. The necessary amount of floor space depends upon the system, on the size of the pens, the weather conditions, and the size of the birds. More birds can be kept on a small floor area under the colony than on the intensive system, where the colony system is used in a mild climate and the hens have free range throughout most of the year. Colony houses holding from 30 to 75 hens are about as large as can be easily moved, but larger numbers may be kept in one flock in a long house. Flocks of from 60 to 150 are well adapted to the average conditions for the production of market eggs. Large numbers require less labor, fewer fences, and a lower house cost than small flocks, but there is a greater chance for disease and the individual hen receives less attention.

TEN WAYS TO PREVENT LOSS

First, Select Pure Breeds That Lay More and Larger Eggs—Collect Eggs Frequently.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

1. Selecting pure breeds that lay more and larger eggs, such as the White Leghorns, Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons, etc.

2. Giving better care, food, and shelter, with dry, clean, vermin-proof nests.

3. Confining males except in breeding season.

4. Collecting eggs frequently, especially in hot or muggy weather.

5. Storing eggs in a dry, clean, cool place.

6. Using small and dirty eggs at home.

7. Marketing frequently, with protection at all times from heat.

8. Selling for cash on a basis of size and quality, "loss off" instead of "case count."

9. Using an attractive package.

10. Combining shipments as a matter of economy.

PROPER CARE FOR GOSLINGS

As Young Fowls Grow Older They Consume Considerable Grass and Other Green Stuff.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The brooding and feeding of goslings is not much different from that of chickens except as the goslings grow older they consume considerable grass and other growing green material and in that way cut down their feed bill. They can be allowed free range when they are two weeks old. Goslings are seldom brooded artificially but will do well with mother geese, hens or even ducks.

POULTRY NOTES

Provide a nest for each 4 or 5 hens.

Feed table and kitchen waste to the hens.

Give a light feed of grain in the morning.

Begin marketing the cockerels as soon as they reach one pound or attain a marketable weight.

When selling eggs to the country merchant or cash buyer insist that the transaction be on a quality basis.

Eggs from "broody" nests should not be marketed; they are of unknown age and quality and should be used at home.

How to Use Your Belt Axe

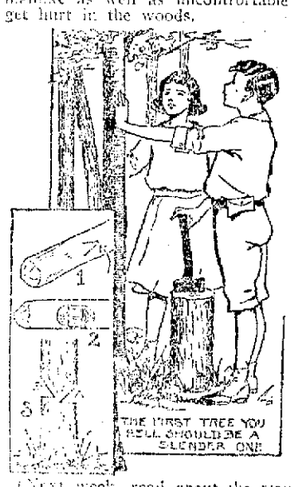
BY ADELIA BELLE BEARD

A good belt axe, or tomahawk, will do most of the work of the ordinary heavy axe and does not require as much strength to handle. You can cut down fairly good sized trees, chop logs, whittle out and drive down tent pegs, lop off branches, and split fire wood with it.

Try CHOPPING LOGS before you attempt to fell a tree. Clear away all vines and underbrush within reach of your hewing axe; it may catch on it and cause a serious accident; then stand over the log and, swinging your axe from right to left, make a cut on the side away from you—not on top—diagonally across the grain of the wood. (Fig. 1.) If this does not reach far enough, try again, then chop on the base of the chip to cut it entirely off.

Do not hurry. Take deliberate aim and strike a sure, unwavering blow. Don't try for too deep cuts; that will wedge your axe and means hard work. Make the notch, or "kerf," wide like Fig. 2 and when it reaches half way through, go around the log and chop the other side until the second "kerf" is cut through to the first and the two sections fall apart.

TO FELL A TREE PROPERLY—your first should be a slender one—chop a "kerf" on the side you wish the tree to fall (A, Fig. 3) and another on the opposite side a little higher up (B, Fig. 3), leaving a thin wall between. When warned by a slight movement at the top of the tree and the sound of cracking wood, step quickly to one side, never in front or behind. Otherwise the tree will fall on you, or, the trunk shooting backward, you may be felled as well as the tree. Stand at one side and, unharmed, watch it fall. It is unsportsmanlike as well as uncomfortable to get hurt in the woods.



(Next week, read about the plants that have artillery of their own.)

Hunting Eye Goes to Church

BY R. S. ALEXANDER.

Hunting Eye heard music. It came from a building nearby. Often in the Great North Woods the Indian Boy had heard the old women of his people singing to the papooses in the evening, or the medicine men beating the hide drums for the dances of the young braves. But he had never heard such music as this.

Unconsciously he climbed the great stone steps and glided in through the big open door. He found a little room with another big door beyond; he opened it, and saw before him a wide path with wooden benches on each side and many people in the benches. At the end of the path stood a tall man in black behind a big, polished brown stump. Hunting Eye walked down and sat on one of the benches. After a long time the people began to leave. The tall man in black came to Hunting Eye.

"Why do you come to church, my boy?" he asked.

"What is church?"

"Your people worship the Great Spirit and do as He says. The medicine man talk with him and receive his messages. They give these messages to all the people of the tribe Our Great Spirit also makes rules for His worship. These rules are written down. Men called Preachers like the medicine men of your people explain the rules and try to get the people to live up to them. The people worshipping our Great Spirit are divided into groups called congregations. The building in which a congregation meets is called a church. The whole body of persons worshipping our Great Spirit is called the Church."

"Is the Church a part of the Government?"

"No, they are separate. The Church usually urges the people to obey the laws. It often advises as to what laws shall be made. But it does not really make or enforce the laws. Most of the men who run the Government belong to the Church so that it has a good deal to say as to how things are run."

As Hunting Eye left the church he had a new respect for the Great Spirit of the white men who was worshiped so grandly.

QUESTIONS

1. How does the Church help enforce the laws?
2. How does the Church help make the laws?
3. Give an example of a law which was made largely through the work of the church.

(Read next week of Hunting Eye's adventures with the railway mail clerk.)

MIKE DONLIN, BEAU BRUMMEL OF BASEBALL, IS COMING TO TOWN IN "TURN TO THE RIGHT!"

Above, as Donlin Appears in the Role of the Comedy Pickpocket in "Turn to the Right;" Center, in Action With the Giants; Below, as He is Known in Broadway's Clubs and Cafes.

When the public attaches itself firmly to a "regular fellow" in the realm of sport, its custom is to make an actor of him.

Jim Corbett, Apollo of the prize ring, has amassed a second fortune spinning yarns for vaudeville audiences.

Jimmy Britt, another exponent of the padded mitts, has given his monologue before nearly all the crowned heads of Europe and is a reigning music hall favorite in London.

And now comes Mike Donlin, one of the most popular of all baseball heroes, the latest to lay aside the laurels of sport to win them afresh as thespian. To be sure, the step from the clubhouse to the dressing room isn't any recent experiment for Donlin. As a matter of fact, he has been collecting salary as an actor ever since his return from the famous globe girdling tour of the Giants in 1914, but not until this season has his stage work matched his prominence as a diamond star. Lack of opportunity in the roles that he has played in vaudeville and comedy has kept him in comparative obscurity.

The goal of Mike's ambition has been reached this season, however, and newspaper reviewers in New York, Chicago and Boston have agreed that he has "arrived". A change in the original Broadway cast of "Turn to the Right!" gave him his opportunity.

John Golden, producer of the wisely praised laugh maker, not to "type" for the part or the smooth, deft pickpocket, "Slippery Muggs", an important factor in the rollicking fun of the play, and at Donlin's earnest solicitation he was allowed a tryout. The instantaneous hit scored by the ballplayer-actor resulted in the producer signing him on a long term contract at a fancy figure. Donlin is now on tour with the original production of "Turn to the Right!" that was presented at the Gaiety theatre, New York, for a solid year, and he will appear with the organization at the New Driggs theatre, Friday night, Nov. 14.

Next season he will probably be featured in a new play by Mr. Golden.

Donlin is popular in sporting circles wherever English is spoken and many anecdotes are told dealing with his aggressiveness and daring on the diamonds, even his former opponents pay enthusiastic tribute to his sportsmanship, gentlemanly qualities as a sportsman and friend. In physique and general appearance he is rated as one of the most commanding figures that ever wore a baseball uniform.

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. For 17 years he used these tablets (a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil) in his private practice with great success.

They do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. No pains, no griping, no injury to the gums or danger from acid foods—yet they stimulate the liver and bowels. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 10c and 25c a box.

LARGER SEAL SALE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Chairman E. J. Stackpole Tells of Increased Health Program Proposed For Next Year.

Harrisburg, Pa.—"A nation-wide crusade in the United States against the white plague has been launched by the National Tuberculosis Association in conjunction with its 1000 affiliated state and local associations," said E. J. Stackpole, this city, chairman of the State Seal Campaign Committee. "The fight in Pennsylvania is carried on directly under the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis through its dozens of societies," continued Mr. Stackpole.

"This campaign will culminate in the Red Cross Christmas Seal Sale beginning December 1, when it is planned to sell 650,000,000 seals in the United States in order to raise $8,500,000 to carry out the intensive program for next year. In Pennsylvania it is proposed to sell 33,000,000 seals outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. This will mean the raising of $330,000 to fight the menace of the white plague.

"There are 10,000 deaths annually in Pennsylvania from tuberculosis, while 75,000 to 100,000 others have the disease. At least 50,000 of those having consumption receive no systematic medical treatment, either because they do not know they have the disease or because they fail to go to a doctor through timidity or indifference. Over 3000 Pennsylvania men were rejected for army service because they had tuberculosis unknown to themselves and the health authorities. School medical inspections in Pennsylvania show that 65 per cent of the children have physical defects. State, county and city authorities are doing much excellent work in fighting the white plague. But they cannot do all. Their work will be a success only as people learn better health habits. Private health agencies, such as the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, find their chief work in education. Their efforts are fully endorsed by the state health department.

"National and state health authorities have joined in asking private health agencies to enlarge their program for next year. It is for this reason that a much larger sale of Red Cross Seals is planned for this fall.

"Another most important reason for the generous support of the seal campaign is the change of policy by the state health department in caring for victims of tuberculosis. The state has made a request in caring for victims of tuberculosis. The state has made a request that each community take care of its own advanced or hopeless cases, as the three State Sanatoria are overcrowded. The state wants to utilize its sanatoria for the children. This will leave many advanced cases to be taken care of in each community.

"The seal quota for Pennsylvania means the sale of only an average of ten seals to each person. Many persons will be glad to take many times this number."

HER RED CROSS SEAL

This poem was presented in person by Miss Martha J. Opie to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis at their headquarters in New York, and has been used by them in two Red Cross Seal campaigns.

By Martha J. Opie.

"Please give me a Red Cross Seal," she said,
A dear little girl with curly head,
As she hurriedly laid her penny down
And smiled away the impatient frown
Of the clerk, who thought "rich folks should pay
Their own expenses, anyway."
She drew an envelope, soiled and torn,
From the depth of her pocket, ragged and worn,
And carefully placing the seal thereon
With a sad little smile, was quickly gone.

Out into the Christmas throng she flew;
Nobody noticed, nobody knew
The lone little creature, thin and cold,
With the pinched little face under hair of gold,
But she dashed across the crowded street,
Mid the roar of wheels and the horses' feet—
A clatter—a cry of anguish shrill—
And the brave little form lay crushed and still.
Tenderly back through the open door
That she just had passed the child they bore;
And still in the hand was tightly pressed
The letter, in childish scrawl addressed:
"To Mamma, in Heaven." With gentle touch
They loosened the fingers' lifeless clutch,
Not the Seal alone marked the paper red
That this message bore to the loving dead:

"Dear Mamma: I'm lonely since you are gone;
It is hard, so hard, to be left alone.
I cried just the same as you used to do,
And that makes me think, oh, so often of you.
That will me that I may be made to live
He [illegible] Seals, so I'm going to give
The penny you gave me before you died
To buy one to send you this Christmastide."

FACTS FOR YOU TO CONSIDER SERIOUSLY.

10,000 persons die annually in Pennsylvania of tuberculosis.

75,000 to 100,000 others have the disease. Of these 50,000 receive no systematic medical treatment.

Over 3000 Pennsylvania men who had tuberculosis unknown to health authorities were rejected for army service.

School medical inspections show 70 per cent of the children of the state have physical defects.

A large percentage of all children have the germs of tuberculosis in their bodies.

Help save the children of Pennsylvania by buying seals.

More than four thousand cars of apples were shipped this fall from two counties of Arkansas.

REPUBLICAN TICKET ELECTED IN ITS ENTIRETY AT DUBOIS IN SPITE OF STIFF FIGHT BY OPPOSITION

MASSACHUSETTS AND KENTUCKY ELECT REPUBLICAN GOVERNORS BY HAND-SOME MAJORITIES

POLITICAL NEWS FROM ABROAD

DUBOIS, Nov. 5.—In an election where more interest was displayed than has been the case for several years, the Republicans yesterday scored a victory all along the line, electing a mayor, school directors, four councilmen, treasurer and all of the minor officers. And the majorities, almost without exception were large. The single exception was that for treasurer, and at this writing is not definitely decided whether Mr. Slaughenhaupt or Mr. Sutter is the winner. The county ticket also fared well in DuBois, being endorsed by good sized majorities.

The vote according to Mr. Haag was just what was expected following the methods of campaign that were carried out. Mr. Haag showed the strength in every ward and in view of the determined fight that was made against him, his showing was remarkable.

There was a large amount of straight party voting, the Republicans in large numbers being perfectly satisfied with the ticket from top to bottom.

The tabulated voting in the six precincts is as follows:

Results of yesterday's elections indicate a strong Republican swing. While local issues figured to some extent, the general tendency in straight out party contests was towards the Republican party.

In Massachusetts, Governor Coolridge, Republican, who took a strong position against the recent Boston police strike, won an overwhelming victory. His plurality will reach upwards of 150,000.

In New York city the results on the head of the ticket is in doubt, with indications for Moran, Democrat, for president of the board of aldermen, by less than 4,000 plurality.

Returns from Kentucky show that the Republicans have strengthened their inroads on the south by electing a governor.

In Maryland the chances also favor the Republican gubernatorial candidate, although the contest is very close.

In Ohio the prohibition program was endorsed in the state referendum. There is a heavy Republican trend in the returns on the election of mayors throughout the state.

An outstanding feature of the day was the huge gain in the socialistic vote. In New York City the socialist candidate for the president of the board of aldermen in four fifths of the city polled 100,000 or about 18 per cent. of the total in these districts.

In Virginia the Democrats were successful, but the Republicans made gains in some selections.

In New York state the Republicans made important gains in municipal elections. Returns show they will have an overwhelming majority in the next legislature.

Kentucky is Safe

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 4—Complete, although unofficial returns from 63 of the counties with probable majorities of unreported counties estimated, indicated that Edward T. Morow, Republican, has been elected governor by a majority of 30,000.

Maryland in Doubt

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4—Maryland's gubernatorial election was very much in doubt late tonight. The candidates are Albert Richey, Democrat, and present attorney general of Maryland and Harry W. Nice, Republican and state's attorney at Baltimore. The indications are that Richey will win by a slight majority.

Moore is Safe

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4— Early returns this evening indicated the election of Congressman Moore for mayor by a majority of 75,000. The other candidates on the city ticket, including sheriff and county commissioner, upon which here was some slashing, easily won. The election of Moore was never in doubt.

For Law and Order

BOSTON, Nov. 4—Calvin Coolridge, Republican was re-elected governor of Massachusetts by about 50,000 votes in the most exciting contest the state has witnessed in years. He ran on a law and order platform.

Double Joy

OYSTER BAY, Nov. 4—Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., running for Assembly on the Republican ticket was elected today over his Democratic opponent. This was a double joy, for earlier in the day a son was born at the Roosevelt home. This is his fourth child. It will be named Quentin, after Lt. Quentin Roosevelt, his brother, whose aeroplane was shot down in flames while fighting the Germans.

REPUBLICANS WIN OUT IN JEFFERSON

The Republican candidates went through with flying colors in Jefferson county, Lowry for sheriff at midnight had a commanding lead over Shields, the soldier candidate.

Holben for treasurer, and Starzell for register and recorder were going strong, with not much opposition in evidence.

Sibley and Mays were leading the Republican ticket for commissioner, with the two Democrats and the North on the Prohibition running a close race.

Children in India have to learn the multiplication table up to forty times forty, and this is further complicated by the introduction of fractional parts.

Dice were invented and extensively used for gambling purposes at least fifteen hundred years before the Christian era.

CONTEST IN JERSEY UNDECIDED

Clearfield county joined the rest of the country from Maine to California in its swing to safety and sanity and increased Republican majorities.

Despite the storm which lasted practically all afternoon a total of about 11,000 votes were polled. About two-thirds of this total went to the Republican candidates while our Democratic friends succeeded in electing one Commissioner and one Auditor with the remainder.

DuBois rolled up the banner vote, more than 2100 solid citizens exercising the right of suffrage. Adam Haag was re-elected Mayor and the City Council is entirely Republican.

Clearfield borough is at last safely anchored in the Republican column, the Republican county ticket carrying every ward in the town without a single break in the line.

For Justice of the Peace the old veteran, Squire R. G. Chenpenning was re-elected by a handsome majority over J. W. Watson.

William P. Sheeder and C. G. Johnson, both Republicans, were elected school directors.

The Democrats made their only gains on Council, electing F. S. Gilliland in the First; George M. Rosser and Ira Jay in the Second and John S. Chapin in the Third. The Republicans elected were: H. H. Rollin in the Third and C. I. McFarland in the Fourth.

There were 1397 votes polled in Clearfield.

Following is the vote on school director:

	1	2	3	4	Total
Johnson	145	196	226	129	696
Sheeder	160	220	162	128	670
Smith	139	205	132	66	542
Ammerman	101	166	199	94	617

The vote for the different candidates on the county ticket with nine of the ninety-seven districts yet to report is as follows:

County Treasurer

Rumberger, R.	6109
McCloskey, D.	3553
Rumberger's majority	2616

Prothonotary

Ralston, R.	5646
Scollins, D.	4768
Ralston's majority	878

Register and Recorder

Chase, R.	6845
Millberg, D.	4366
Chase's majority	2479

County Commissioners

Dale, R.	5502
Weimer, R.	5473
Farrell, D.	3980
Goodlander, D.	3528

Two Republicans and two Democratic governors were chosen in yesterday's election, incomplete returns today indicated. In a fifth state, Maryland, the contest was close with both sides claiming victory.

Governor Coolridge, Republican, was re-elected in Massachusetts over Long by an overwhelming majority. The Boston police strike denounced by Coolridge figured prominently in the campaign.

Edwin T. Morrow, Republican defeated Black, Democrat, in Kentucy in a hot campaign in which the ratification of the peace treaty in its present form was an issue.

Mississippi elected Lee M. Russell, Democrat, with the usual Democratic majority.

Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, opposed to prohibition, apparently defeated Bugsbee, Republican, for governor in New Jersey. Both sides claim victory today.

In Maryland, Kintzie, Democrat, carried Baltimore by 7000. Republicans claimed their candidate Harry Nite, had offset this in the country districts.

New York City in the municipal and county election defeated Tammany candidates for a majority of the important offices.

Ohio drys triumphed over the wets and ratified the prohibition amendment.

TRINITY METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE BIG SOCIAL EVENT

The "post-Hallowe'en" social held at the Trinity Methodist church last last evening was attended by a large number of the young people, who had a perfectly jolly time. The Sunday School rooms were attractively decorated, Knight's Saxophone orchestra furnished the music, and a varied program of games were carried out, in which everyone joined heartily. At ten o'clock light refreshments were served.

Some of the leading spirits responsible for the success of the affair were Miss Elizabeth Bain, Miss Dorothy Woodward, Miss Jesteen Ellenberger, Howard Stewart, John Hess, John Graham and Alfred Hess.

The Epworth League of Trinity church is a live young people's organization. The devotional meetings are held at 6:30 P. M. every Sunday evening. Miss Woodward will be in charge of the servce next Sunday.

U. B. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

The district convention of the U. B. Christian Endeavor will be held in the U. B. church, Seventh and Dorey streets, Thursday, November 6th. Afternoon session opens at 7:30. Able speakers will give addresses at both sessions and the Round Table discussions will be very helpful.

It will be worth your while to attend.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passages scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Clearfield testimony.

Lewis E. Wise, 404 River street, says: "Some time ago, while working in the mines, I was caught with a pain in my back. I couldn't do any lifting or anything that caused me to bend over. I had no appetite and the pains in my limbs were severe. Doan's Kidney Pills being highly recommended to me, I began their use and I noticed a change in my condition before taking half a box. On finishing just two boxes of Doan's the pains in my back and lameness were all gone."

Price 60c, at all dealrs. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wise had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Machinery for New Laboratory Installed at Colorado Agricultural College.

(By O. V. ADAMS, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins Colo.)

The experiment station of the Colorado Agricultural college at Fort Collins has just completed the installation of the machinery for a new laboratory for the testing of road materials and is now fully equipped to make all the standard mechanical tests on rock, broken stone, slag, gravel, sand and top soil.

The laboratory has been installed for the purpose of aiding the people of the state in their road-building problems. No charge is made for the testing of any material; the sample must, however, be of sufficient size to enable complete investigations to be made.

The first systematic attempts to determine the value of rock for road building purposes by means of laboratory tests were made in France in 1878, and the excellence of the French roads can no doubt be partly attributed to the selection of the best available materials for their construction.

Stretch of Improved Road Between Cripple Creek and Canon City, Colo.

In 1893, a road material testing laboratory was established by the Massachusetts highway commission, with the late Logan W. Page in charge. This work has developed until today there are many such laboratories throughout the United States, and road engineers are more and more coming to realize the value of such tests and to specify that material used in road construction shall measure up to certain established standard requirements.

INJURY DONE TO GOOD ROADS

Autos and Motor Trucks Do More Harm Than Steel-Tired Vehicles on Account of Speed.

There is more damage done to the roads now by autos and motor trucks than steel-tired vehicles ever did, for the reason of greater speed of motor vehicles and their drivers have the same fool tracking habit the horse drivers always had. Driving in the same tracks never damaged steel tires, but it is the destruction of the roads and rubber tires. The motor vehicle is worse for the roads than horse rigs on account of greater speed. The reason running in a track is damaging to rubber tires, is a sharp rock will be set in the side of the track with the sharpest corner out to nip a piece out of every tire, and sharp rocks cannot dodge or bounce out of the bottom of the track, but cut holes in the tires and break the fabric, causing the so called stone bruises and rim cuts, even on properly inflated tires.

"There's a Reason"

PREVENT LOSSES OF POTATO CROP

Avoid Cutting and Bruising of Tubers While in Field and in Shipping.

CAREFUL GRADING IS URGED

Cars Should Be Loaded With Aim for Ventilation and to Guard Against Shifting About and Breakage of Containers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Potato growers can prevent much of the losses of the new crop in transit and in the markets by avoiding cutting and bruising the tubers in the field and by not allowing the potatoes to remain exposed to the sun after digging.

Careful grading will increase the growers' profits and will make a sure and more constant market. It is important to keep the skin—the protecting cover of the potato—intact. In handling new potatoes this requires great care. Cars should be loaded according to a definite plan, which provides for ventilation and prevents shifting about and breakage of the containers.

Keep Skin Whole.

The majority of fungous diseases that cause decay of potatoes and other vegetables can not develop when the skin is free from cuts and bruises. Careful handling is fundamental, therefore, for the prevention of deterioration and waste. In this respect probably no single factor is equal in importance to proper handling in the field and none is more generally ignored by the average grower or laborer.

As a result of extensive investigations conducted by the department of agriculture at the more important shipping points the investigators recommend the double-headed, ventilated barrel as the most satisfactory package for shipping new potatoes. If properly made this container is sufficiently strong to carry the weight of its contents and fully protect the potatoes. The investigations show that there is much less breakage in cars where the barrels are loaded on end than when loaded on the bilge. Records show that in practically every car loaded on the bilge without head liners from 3 to 30 or more barrels are crushed and broken upon arrival at the market. Cloth-top barrels do not protect their contents as effectively as those having double heads. Slat or veneer barrels are too flimsy. All barrels used in shipping potatoes should conform to the specifications of the United States standard barrel.

Sacks Often Fail.

Although sacks are used extensively for shipping storage potatoes they do not sufficiently protect new potatoes from cuts and bruises and make adequate ventilation difficult. However, sacks cost less than barrels and are frequently used. Sacks should not be of greater capacity than 120 pounds. In loading sacked potatoes set them upright one-half of the sacks leaning against one side of the car and the other half against the other side, thus leaving a V-shaped space in the center for ventilation. Two layers of sacks may be placed on top of these, being placed flat with the ends toward the side of the car.

Good types of ventilated box cars and stock cars are suitable for shipping new potatoes. When the tubers are sound and of good quality 30,000 pounds is a safe load. Double-deck stock cars are used in some sections and can be safely loaded by placing one solid layer of sacks or barrels standing upright on each deck. If stock cars are used, it is advisable to line the sides with heavy building paper to protect from sun and weather. The net weight or dry measure should be marked on all containers.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with dull pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

A Service for the Well-Groomed Woman

Nothing of late has sounded more pleasantly in the ears of women than the message the boys have been bringing back with them from across the seas.

"In dress and personal charm," they have said with one accord, "No women can match our own."

You owe it to the nation to preserve that charm, but need we tell you that laborious work over the washtub is a detriment to the woman who would continue to be well-groomed?

Our laundry service should attract you, therefore, for two most important reasons:

We can give to your own apparel all the delightful cleanliness and smart finish that is implied by the words "well-groomed."

And we can help you add to your own personal charm by removing from your home the heavy labor of the family washing.

Try our efficient, simple way—call us up and have us send our driver for your family washing.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAYS COURT ORDER WILL STAND

Dispels Hope Of Labor Leaders That They Might Regain Directing Power

Indications Are That Miners Leaders In Receptive Frame of Mind Regarding Arbitration

COAL SUPPLY QUARTER NORMAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—The federal government today rebuffed the suggestion of labor leaders that the coal strike would be ended if the Indianapolis injunction against it were vacated. Denouncing the strike as a violation of law Assistant Attorney General Ames announced the government's determination to proceed against it in the court as long as it continues. His statement came in direct response to one from Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, who declared that if the injunction were vacated he had an abiding faith that negotiations could be arranged between the strikers and operators. Gompers' statement was fully considered and the reply was made to his and other labor leaders' statements.

The government's announcement had a staggering effect on peace talk which has been going around in Washington for more than a day.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5—An unmistakable sentiment prevailed among those in close touch with the United Mine Workers headquarters here that the strike of coal miners would be of short duration, though nothing tangible for this belief could be found today. No proosal has been made by the Department of Labor toward lifting the restraining order on condition that the men would submit to the issue of the Federal Arbitration board. It was stated positively that union leaders here are strongly opposed to arbitration of this nature although it is not impossible that an arbitration offer might be accepted. Miners were waiting today for either the goernment or coal operators to start negotiations in motion. No indication that either the government or operators would do so could be discovered here.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Attorney General Palmer has declared that the government has not the slightest intention of vacating the coal strike injunction. This was in answer to reports that the government would receive from its action in the courts by way of conciliation to the miners for the opening of negotiations.

On the contrary the government will, at the hearing before Judge Anderson in Indianapolis Saturday urge vigorously that the strike be held illegal and that temporary restraining order be made permanent.

The government's position and intention to carry out this program was made clear in a letter from Attorney General Palmer in answer to a letter protesting against the government's proceedings.

Attorney General Palmer asserted that he is opposed to government by injunction, but points out the distinction in the coal strike case. He declared that the injunction is sought on the grounds that the strike is a violation of the food and fuel act, and that while individual criminal prosecutions and a vast number of civil actions for damages could be instituted, the government has chosen to settle the issue in the court at Indianapolis. Then he said:

"I assume that the miners are law-abiding citizens and that they do not intend nor desire to disobey the laws of the United States. If the strike is unlawful the courts will so adjudge. If it is lawful, the courts will so adjudge. The government has submitted itself to the jurisdiction of the court in order that this issue may be decided.

"It has placed itself upon terms of equality with its citizens in order that there may be an official decision of the legal proposition involved. You will of course agree with me that the law of the land must be obeyed, and that there are no organizations, great or small, that is superior to the law of the land.

By RALPH S. COUCH
United Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—The coal strike has reduced two-thirds the nation's fuel supply according to reports received here today. Vice President Morrow of the National Coal Association estimated that the bituminous production now totaled approximately four million tons a week in spite of the walk out of 425,000 miners. This he said is about one-third of the nation's normal production.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor declared that if the injunction is vacated he felt sure that certain operators and striking miners would get together.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In Italy.

Arriving at one of the most critical stages of the war, when the Teutons were forcing the Italian army back to the Piave, the American Red Cross rushed emergency relief from Paris and revived the drooping spirits of the whole country. In addition to furnishing rations and comforts and medical attention to the fighting men, the American Red Cross instituted 42 soup kitchens, 36 children's hospitals, 10 children's dispensaries, 14 artificial limb factories, five homes for refugee children, 10 rest stations for refugees.

This photograph shows a group of Italian refugee children being fed by the American Red Cross at one of the numerous relief stations.

"AMERICA" IN THE SALON DE PARIS.—A painting, that is attracting a great deal of attention in the Salon de Paris is the one entitled "America" by Rene Aral. The painting typifies the spirit of the United States in uncovering the war and shows the figure of an American "Doughboy" supporting a wounded French Poilu. The American, his face toned with the expression of the battle spirit, is defying the enemy.

DARING AUTHORESS WHO DENOUNCES MORMONISM

THE first journey to America of the brilliant English novelist, Mrs. Theodore Cory, who writes under the pen name of "Winifred Graham," will be made particularly to address the Third World's Christian Citizenship Conference at Pittsburgh, November 9 to 16.

Daringly frank in her discussion of striking topics, "Winifred Graham" has made an enviable reputation among twentieth century English novelists. As the writer of thirty-two books having a world wide circulation and as a social leader her expected presence in Pittsburgh is attracting the attention of the literary and social elite.

"Winifred Graham" is the author of a new boldly venturesome novel regarding the court life of the Kaiser, bearing the title, "The Imperial Malefactor." But she is best known as the author of books taking their themes from Mormon passions and polygamy—among these are, "Ezra, the Mormon," and the "Love Story of a Mormon."

"Winifred Graham" is chairman of a World Commission studying Mormonism. She will read her report at the Third World's Christian Citizenship Conference, which has been called by the National Reform Association.

Wednesday, November 12, will be largely devoted to the discussion of Mormonism, and the new polygamy coming out of the war will be one of the themes at a great woman's mass meeting to be held November 14 at Syria Mosque, the central meeting place of the World Conference.

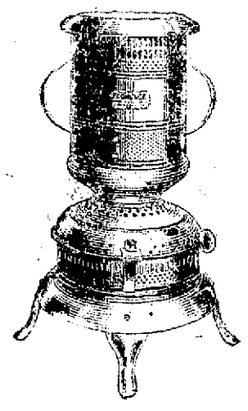
Florence Oil Heaters



Heat plus beauty—

There are four big reasons why the Portable Oil Heater is just the heater you need this winter to make chilly corners comfortable.

(1) The Florence gives generous heat.

(2) Scientific construction makes the Florence strong and sturdy.

(3) It is the most beautiful heater ever made.

(4) It is the most economical, as it gives maximum heat for every drop of oil. Notice the graceful harmonious line of the curved fire bowl. There is a practical purpose behind this besides just to delight the eye. This gives a bigger heating or radiating surface. This means more heat for less money.

SPORT NOTES

Atheletic relations have again been renewed with our neighbors, Bellefonte, and old C. H. S. is working hard to beat them. The team was out on Thursday, working like wood choppers, to beat the small college team over yonder. The Bellefonte High School team is on an equal with C. H. S. and therefore a good game is predicted. The team as a whole is in splendid condition for this game, except Captain Butler, who has a carbuncle in the back of his neck. There are probabilities that he may not be able to play, but on account of that fact, the team is working so much harder to have just as strong a team without him as if he were able to play. Two weeks ago the team defeated the husky Mt. Union High School without the captain playing with them, and are sure they can do the same thing again on Saturday. Some new plays are being introduced to the team by the coach and old ones put on the reserve list. The Bellefonte High School game may be called the biggest game of the season, so everyone come out and see your old enemy go to defeat.

The game will be called at three o'clock sharp.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

SIR DAVID DUCK.

"David Duck,' said Daddy, "was such a proud duck and he strutted and quacked so much that everyone in the barnyard called him Sir David Duck.

"One day, not long ago, Sir David Duck, quacked and quacked and wobbled about and made a great fuss. All the ducks came around, as did most of the other barnyard creatures.

"'What is it that you have to say, Sir David?' they all asked him. 'Have you something to tell us, Sir David?'

"Now Sir David was very fond of his title. He liked to be called by such a name and have all the barnyard creatures think he was very fine.

"'Yes, I have something to tell you,' said Sir David. 'All gather around me and I will tell what I have to tell. The news has just reached me. I heard some men talking. I heard them and I listened, and that is always a very sensible thing to do. Ears weren't given creatures to see with any more than mouths were given people or creatures to hear with.'

"All the creatures looked at each other and said,

"'Oh, isn't Sir David so very, very wise?'

"He nodded as if he agreed with them and continued,

"'Yes, I listen when I hear and I hear when I listen, and I eat when I take food and I take food when I eat. I speak with my voice and walk with my legs and feet.'

"'Very interesting, very interesting,' said the other creatures of the barnyard.

"'And I heard these two people talking as I have already begun to tell you.'

"'Listen,' they all said. 'Sir David is about to tell us his story.'

"'These two people were men, both were men, for when I say two were men it means the same as when I say both were men.'

"'How very wise,' said the other barnyard creatures, 'he has more than one way of expressing himself.'

"'One was a young man and the other was a young man, and two young men mean two young men, they don't mean an old man. You might think, creatures, that one young man and another young man added together would make one old man, but it doesn't, no it doesn't. Young men don't go together like that.'

"I Heard Some Men Talking."

"How wisely he talks,' said the barnyard creatures. So, as they liked whatever he said, and as they thought he was so fine Sir David thought so too and went on saying the most ridiculous things as though they were splendid and never became any smarter because no one ever said,

"'It's jolly to hear what you have to say, but it's not so very clever.'

"'Well,' continued Sir David, 'these two young men told of a duck they had seen like me. It had been a make-believe duck, one made out of board or wood or some such thing and it was supposed to be a wild duck.

"'Of course they knew I wasn't a wild duck and they knew they mustn't harm me. But for a moment I felt a little bit worried until I saw that they thought it was funny that this make-believe duck hadn't been better made, and that they knew while we might look alike, that I was a tame duck and that no one could harm me.

"'But the point of my story is that this make-believe duck was in a sporting shop where it was sitting on the end of a canoe and that this sporting shop was advertising to sell guns and things to catch ducks who would come and sit on the end of canoes.

"'The foolish thing to my mind was that people could get up such silly things and could believe that ducks ever would come and sit on the end of a canoe where there was a man and a gun and would say,

"'Pray shoot me, good people.'

"'These two young men merely thought it was funny that I looked so much like the make-believe duck, but I though to myself,

"'There are some creatures who don't understand our cousins, the wild ducks, if they think they sit around on canoes waiting to be shot. Ah, if those sporting shops (though I wouldn't work for one) really wanted brains used in advertising they should employ me!'"

Good roads have become a necessity, not only on the public and main highways, but on the township lines as well.

Road Building Is Simple.

Road building is absurdly simple. Just two things are required—money and brains. And the more brains you use, the less money you need.

The results of yesterday's election were not unexpected and there was little element of surprise in any of the districts. While it is true that there was an overwhelming Republican registration, the reason for this goes back to the national administration, with which everybody but the plum grabbers are thoroughly disgusted.

The suggestion of our burgess that Clearfield observe Armistice Day in some fitting manner is timely and appropriate. Let all good citizens turn out to the meeting called for Friday night when arrangements will be made for this occasion. It need not be any great big celebration but the day, November 11th, means so much to all of us and to the whole world that we should not let it pass unobserved.

More than one Clearfield county newspaper learned a lesson in the election held yesterday. The surprising part of it is that these newspapers are old in the business and yet they seem to think that they can elect their candidate by a campaign of vilification of the opponent rather than by presenting the good points of their own man. In Clearfield this kind of campaign was carried on against Dale and Chase yet both men stand at the top of the list as vote getters. In DuBois the same methods were used against Adam Haag the candidate for mayor with similar results. Using such methods in this enlightened age means that every knock is a boost so here is wishing that they keep up their work.

"CARRY ON"

It seems to us that in recent years the crusade against tuberculosis has been a most difficult task and that there is a decided lack of public interest in the problem. This may be due to the fact that our energies have been directed toward war-time activities or perhaps that we have nothing new or sensational to offer or add to our present methods of handing the tuberculosis as has been the case with other infectious diseases of shorter duration. But the fight against tuberculosis is still the world's conflict and there is none comparable to it in magnitude or fatality. The tubercle bacillus is still the same unrelenting, uncompromising enemy of both man and beast working every conceivable form of misery, poverty, sorrow, destruction and death.

Tuberculosis is potential dynamite acting without the "bang" and its destruction is not so spectacular.

The recent world war has revealed to us that from humanitarian and economic viewpoints we must readjust and reconstruct all our armaments in our fight against the great white plague. Untoward war and post-war conditions can only be commensurated for by sincerely taking advantage of everything science really knows of recognized methods of treatment.

The post-mortem table has never perhaps given more decided proof of the curability of a disease than it gives of tuberculosis of the lungs. "No single element in the cure, neither air, nor food, nor medicine affords any guarantee of success; it is only the satisfaction of all the physiological and hygienic demands of the organism from the greatest to the least significant that can bring about this result." We must pin our faith on the leucocyte—the scavenger of the blood—and no chemical or pharmacological laboratory, no mechanical or electrical appliance has, as yet, succeeded in producing a single one. Rest, food, fresh air, and the proper regulation of one's living are the factors that will place one in the most favorable position for the manufacture of his own anti-bodies, the best weapon with which to combat the disease.

Learn the principles and wherein they may apply to you and to members of your family. Get over the first line of defense by getting knowledge. One of the greatest opportunities ever offered will be the public health meeting to be held at the Clearfield High school on Thursday evening. November thirteenth. Come interested to come to life and we feel sure principles which is everyone's patriotic duty to take up and, pet of, to make up our mind to be present.

HEALTH CHIEF OF STATE STRONGLY BACKS SEAL DRIVE

"The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and the State department of health are in thorough agreement and are working with the closest possible co-operation," says Dr. Edward Martin, state commissioner of health, in discussing the work of the society in connection with the Red Cross Seal Christmas drive.

"There is," he added, "a broad field for tuberculosis work in this state. Much has already been done to coordinate the various agencies in the field. If the State Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis did nothing more than assist in the separation of the children from contact with those suffering from tuberculosis, it would be performing a great service. The selling of Christmas seals is a side in a deserving cause. The fight against tuberculosis needs many intelligent workers, home supervision and instruction, and, last of all, much money."

White Plague's Ravages.

The deaths from tuberculosis in the United States average 1500 a day. Every three minutes some man, woman or child dies from its ravages. One-seventh of all the people who die in the United States are victims of tuberculosis. The annual toll is a preventable one. Let us do our part.

FARM POULTRY

CONSTRUCTION OF HEN HOUSE

More Fowls Can Be Kept on Small Floor Area Under Colony Than on Intensive System.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A house constructed for the convenience of the attendant will have enough cubic air space provided 2 to 5 square feet of floor space is allowed per fowl. Fresh air should be secured by ventilation rather than by furnishing a larger amount of cubic air space than is required for the convenience of the attendant. The necessary amount of floor space depends upon the system, on the size of the pens, the weather conditions, and the size of the birds. More birds can be kept on a small floor area under the colony than on the intensive system, where the colony system is used in a mild climate and the hens have free range throughout most of the year. Colony houses holding from 30 to 75 hens are about as large as can be easily moved, but larger numbers may be kept in one flock in a long house. Flocks of from 60 to 150 are well adapted to the average conditions for the production of market eggs. Large numbers require less labor, fewer fences, and a lower house cost than small flocks, but there is a greater chance for disease and the individual hen receives less attention.

TEN WAYS TO PREVENT LOSS

First, Select Pure Breeds That Lay More and Larger Eggs—Collect Eggs Frequently.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

1. Selecting pure breeds that lay more and larger eggs, such as the White Leghorns, Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons, etc.

2. Giving better care, food, and shelter, with dry, clean, vermin-proof nests.

3. Confining males except in breeding season.

4. Collecting eggs frequently, especially in hot or muggy weather.

5. Storing eggs in a dry, clean, cool place.

6. Using small and dirty eggs at home.

7. Marketing frequently, with protection at all times from heat.

8. Selling for cash on a basis of size and quality, "loss off" instead of "case count."

9. Using an attractive package.

10. Combining shipments as a matter of economy.

PROPER CARE FOR GOSLINGS

As Young Fowls Grow Older They Consume Considerable Grass and Other Green Stuff.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The brooding and feeding of goslings is not much different from that of chickens except as the goslings grow older they consume considerable grass and other growing green material and in that way cut down their feed bill. They can be allowed free range when they are two weeks old. Goslings are seldom brooded artificially as will do well with mother geese, hens or even ducks.

POULTRY NOTES

Provide a nest for each 4 or 5 hens.

* * *

Feed table and kitchen waste to the hens.

Give a light feed of grain in the morning.

Begin marketing the cockerels as soon as they reach one pound or attain a marketable weight.

When selling eggs to the country merchant or cash buyer insist that the transaction be on a quality basis.

* * *

Eggs from "stolen" nests should not be marketed; they are of unknown age and quality and should be used at home.

How to Use Your Belt Axe

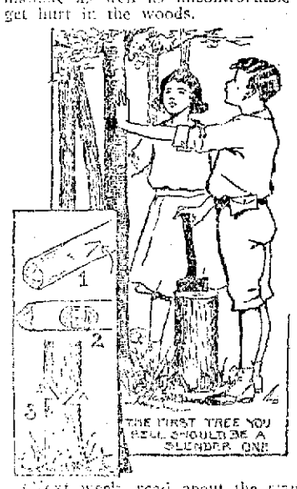
BY ADELIA BELLE BEARD

A good belt axe, or tomahawk, will do most of the work of the ordinary heavy axe and does not require as much strength to handle. You can cut down fairly good sized trees, chop logs, whittle out and drive down tent pegs, lop off branches, and split fire wood with it.

Try chopping logs before you attempt to fell a tree. Clear away all vines and underbrush within reach of your moving axe; it may catch on them and cause a serious accident; then stand over the log and, swinging your axe from right to left, make a long cut on the side away from you—not on too diagonally across the grain of the wood. (Fig. 1.) If this does not reach far enough, try again, then chop on the base of the chip to cut it entirely off.

Do not hurry. Take deliberate aim and strike a sure, unwavering blow. Don't try for too deep cuts; that will wedge your axe and means hard work. Make the notch, or "kerf," wide like Fig. 2 and when it reaches half way through, go around the log and chop the other side until the second "kerf" is cut through to the first and the two sections fall apart.

TO FELL A TREE PROPERLY—your first should be a slender one—chop a "kerf" on the side you wish the tree to fall (A, Fig. 3) and another on the opposite side a little higher up (B, Fig. 3), leaving a thin wall between. When warned by a slight movement at the top of the tree and the sound of cracking wood, step quickly to one side, never in front or behind. Otherwise the tree will fall on you, or, the trunk shooting backward, you may be felled as well as the tree. Stand at one side and, unharmed, watch it fall. It is unsportsmanlike as well as uncomfortable to get hurt in the woods.



Next week, read about the plants that have artillery of their own.

Hunting Eye Goes to Church

BY R. S. ALEXANDER.

Hunting Eye heard music. It came from a building nearby. Often in the Great North Woods the Indian Boy had heard the old women of his people singing to the papooses in the evening, or the medicine men beating the hide drums for the dances of the young braves. But he had never heard such music as this.

Unconsciously he climbed the great stone steps and glided in through the big open door. He found a little room with another big door beyond; he opened it, and saw before him a wide path with wooden benches on each side and many people in the benches. At the end of the path stood a tall man in black behind a big, polished brown stump. Hunting Eye walked down and sat on one of the benches. After a long time the people began to leave. The tall man in black came to Hunting Eye.

"Why do you come to church, my boy?" he asked.

"What is church?"

"Your people worship the Great Spirit and do as He says. The medicine man talk with him and receive his messages. They give these messages to all the people of the tribe. Our Great Spirit also makes rules for His worship. These rules are written down. Men called Preachers like the medicine men of your people explain the rules and try to get the people to live up to them. The people worshipping our Great Spirit are divided into groups called congregations. The building in which a congregation meets is called a church. The whole body of persons worshipping our Great Spirit is called the Church."

"Is the Church a part of the Government?"

"No, they are separate. The Church usually urges the people to obey the laws. It often advises as to what laws shall be made. But it does not really make or enforce the laws. Most of the men who run the Government belong to the Church so that it has a good deal to say as to how things are run."

As Hunting Eye left the church he had a new respect for the Great Spirit of the white men who was worshiped so grandly.

QUESTIONS

1. How does the Church help enforce the laws?
2. How does the Church help make the laws?
3. Give an example of a law which was made largely through the work of the church.

(Read next week of Hunting Eye's adventures with the railway mail clerk.)

MIKE DONLIN, BEAU BRUMMEL OF BASEBALL, IS COMING TO TOWN IN "TURN TO THE RIGHT!"

Above, as Donlin Appears in the Role of the Comedy Pickpocket in "Turn to the Right;" Center, in Action With the Giants; Below, as He is Known in Broadway's Clubs and Cafes.

When the public attaches itself firmly to a "regular fellow" in the realm of sport, its custom is to make an actor of him.

Jim Corbett, Apollo of the prize ring, has amassed a second fortune spinning yarns for vaudeville audiences.

Jimmy Britt, another exponent of the padded mitts, has given his monologue before nearly all the crowned heads of Europe and is a reigning music hall favorite in London.

And now comes Mike Donlin, one of the most popular of all baseball heroes, the latest to lay aside the laurels of sport to win them afresh as thespian. To be sure, the step from the clubhouse to the dressing room isn't any recent experiment for Donlin. As a matter of fact, he has been collecting salary as an actor ever since his return from the famous globe girdling tour of the Giants in 1914, but not until this season has his stage work matched his prominence as a diamond star. Lack of opportunity in the roles that he has played in vaudeville and comedy has kept him in comparative obscurity.

The goal of Mike's ambition has been reached this season, however, and newspaper reviewers in New York, Chicago and Boston have agreed that he has "arrived". A change in the original Broadway cast of "Turn to the Right!" gave him his opportunity.

John Golden, producer of the wisely praised laugh maker, needed a "type" for the part or the smooth, deft pickpocket, "Slippery Muggs", an important factor in the rollicking fun of the play, and at Donlin's earnest solicitation he was allowed a tryout. The instantaneous hit scored by the ballplayer-actor resulted in the producer signing him on a long term contract at a fancy figure. Donlin is now on tour with the original production of "Turn to the Right!" that was presented at the Gaiety theatre, New York, for a solid year, and he will appear with the organization at the New Driggs theatre, Friday night, Nov. 14.

Next season he will probably be featured in a new play by Mr. Golden.

Donlin is popular in sporting circles wherever English is spoken and of his many anecdotes are told dealing with his aggressiveness and daring on the diamonds, even his former opponents pay enthusiastic tribute to his sportsmanship, gentlemanly qualities as a sportsman and friend. In physique and general appearance he is rated as one of the most commanding figures that ever wore a baseball uniform.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. For 17 years he used these tablets (a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil) in his private practice with great success.

They do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. No pains, no griping, no injury to the gums or danger from acid foods—yet they stimulate the liver and bowels. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 10c and 25c a box.

LARGER SEAL SALE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Chairman E. J. Stackpole Tells of Increased Health Program Proposed For Next Year.

Harrisburg, Pa.—"A nation-wide crusade in the United States against the white plague has been launched by the National Tuberculosis Association in conjunction with its 1000 affiliated state and local associations," said E. J. Stackpole, this city, chairman of the State Seal Campaign Committee. "The fight in Pennsylvania is carried on directly under the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis through its dozens of societies," continued Mr. Stackpole.

"This campaign will culminate in the Red Cross Christmas Seal Sale beginning December 1, when it is planned to sell 650,000,000 seals in the United States in order to raise $3,500,000 to carry out the intensive program for next year. In Pennsylvania it is proposed to sell 33,000,000 seals outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. This will mean the raising of $330,000 to fight the menace of the white plague.

"There are 10,000 deaths annually in Pennsylvania from tuberculosis, while 75,000 to 100,000 others have the disease. At least 50,000 of those having consumption receive no systematic medical treatment, either because they do not know they have the disease or because they fail to go to a doctor through timidity or indifference. Over 3000 Pennsylvania men were rejected for army service because they had tuberculosis unknown to themselves and the health authorities. School medical inspections in Pennsylvania show that 65 per cent of the children have physical defects. State, county and city authorities are doing much excellent work in fighting the white plague. But they cannot do all. Their work will be a success only as people learn better health habits. Private health agencies, such as the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, find their chief work in education. Their efforts are fully endorsed by the state health department.

"National and state health authorities have joined in asking private health agencies to enlarge their program for next year. It is for this reason that a much larger sale of Red Cross Seals is planned for this fall.

"Another most important reason for the generous support of the seal campaign is the change of policy by the state health department in caring for victims of tuberculosis. The state has made a request in caring for victims of tuberculosis. The state has made a request that each community take care of its own advanced or hopeless cases, as the three State Sanatoria are overcrowded. The state wants to utilize its sanatoria for the children. This will leave many advanced cases to be taken care of in each community.

"The seal quota for Pennsylvania means the sale of only an average of ten seals to each person. Many persons will be glad to take many times this number."

HER RED CROSS SEAL

This poem was presented in person by Miss Martha J. Opie to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis at their headquarters in New York, and has been used by them in two Red Cross Seal campaigns.

By Martha J. Opie.

"Please give me a Red Cross Seal," she said,
A dear little girl with curly head,
As she hurriedly laid her penny down
And smiled away the impatient frown
Of the clerk, who thought "sick folks should pay
Their own expenses, anyway."
She drew an envelope, soiled and torn,
From the depth of her pocket, ragged and worn,
And carefully placing the seal thereon
With a sad little smile, was quickly gone.

Out into the Christmas throng she flew;
Nobody noticed, nobody knew
The lone little creature, cold and cold,
With the pinched little face under hair of gold,
But she darted across the crowded street,
'Mid the roar of wheels and the horses' feet—
A clatter—a cry of anguish shrill—
And the brave little form lay crushed and still.
Tenderly back through the open door
That she just had passed the child they bore;
And still in the hand was tightly pressed
The letter, in childish scrawl addressed:
"To Mamma, in Heaven." With gentle touch
They loosened the fingers' lifeless clutch,
For the Seal alone marked the paper red
That this message bore to the loving dead:

"Dear Mamma: I'm lonely since you are gone;
It is hard, so hard, to be left alone.
I cried just like same as you used to do,
And that makes me think of you so often of you.
They tell me that I may be made to live
By Red Cross Seals, so I'm going to give
The penny you gave me before you flew
To buy one to send you this Christmastide."

Red Cross Seal Sale Begins Dec. 1.

FACTS FOR YOU TO CONSIDER SERIOUSLY.

10,000 persons die annually in Pennsylvania of tuberculosis.

75,000 to 100,000 others have the disease. Of these 50,000 receive no systematic medical treatment.

Over 3000 Pennsylvania men who had tuberculosis unknown to health authorities were rejected for army service.

School medical inspections show 70 per cent of the children of the state have physical defects.

A large percentage of all children have the germs of tuberculosis in their bodies.

Help save the children of Pennsylvania by buying seals.

VOTERS REGISTER DISAPPROVAL OF ACTS OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN EMPHATIC TERMS

REPUBLICAN TICKET ELECTED IN ITS ENTIRETY AT DUBOIS IN SPITE OF STIFF FIGHT BY OPPOSITION

POLITICAL NEWS FROM ABROAD

DUBOIS, Nov. 5.—In an election where more interest was displayed than has been the case for several years, the Republicans yesterday scored a victory all along the line, electing a mayor, school directors, four councilmen, treasurer and all of the minor officers. And the majorities, almost without exception were large. The single exception was that for treasurer, and at this writing is not definitely decided whether Mr. Slaughenhaupt or Mr. Sutter is the winner. The county ticket also fared well in DuBois, being endorsed by good sized majorities.

The vote according to Mr. Haag was just what was expected following the methods of campaign that were carried out. Mr. Haag showed the strength in every ward and in view of the determined fight that was made against him, his showing was remarkable.

There was a large amount of straight party voting, the Republicans in large numbers being perfectly satisfied with the ticket from top to bottom.

The tabulated voting in the six precincts is as follows:

Mayor.

Haag ..	321	180	142	199	214	214	1270

Results of yesterday's elections indicate a strong Republican swing. While local issues figured to some extent, the general tendency in straight out party contests was towards the Republican party.

In Massachusetts, Governor Coolridge, Republican, who took a strong position against the recent Boston police strike, won an overwhelming victory. His plurality will reach upwards of 150,000.

In New York city the results of the head of the ticket is in doubt, with indications for Moran, Democrat, for president of the board of aldermen, by less than 4,000 plurality.

Returns from Kentucky show that the Republicans have strengthened their inroads on the south by electing a governor.

In Maryland the chances also favor the Republican gubernatorial candidate, although the contest is very close.

In Ohio the prohibition program was endorsed in the state referendum. There is a heavy Republican trend in the returns on the election of mayors throughout the state.

An outstanding feature of the day was the huge gain in the socialistic vote. In New York City the socialist candidate for the president of the board of aldermen in four fifths of the city polled 160,000 or about 19 per cent. of the total in these districts.

In Virginia the Democrats were successful, but the Republicans made gains in some selections.

In New York state the Republicans made important gains in municipal elections. Returns show they will have an overwhelming majority in the next legislature.

Kentucky is Safe

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 4—Complete, although unofficial returns from 63 of the counties with probable majorities of unreported counties estimated, indicated that Edward T. Morow, Republican, has been elected governor by a majority of 30,000.

Maryland in Doubt

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4—Marylands gubernatorial election was very much in doubt late tonight. The candidates are Albert Richey, Democrat, and present attorney general of Maryland and Harry W. Nice, Republican and state's attorney at Baltimore. The indications are that Richey will win by a slight majority.

Moore is Safe

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4— Early returns this evening indicated the election of Congressman Moore for mayor by a majority of 75,000. The other candidates on the city ticket, including sheriff and county commissioner, upon which here was some slashing, easily won. The election of Moore was never in doubt.

For Law and Order

BOSTON, Nov. 4—Calvin Coolridge, Republican was re-elected governor of Massachusetts by about 50,000 votes in the most exciting contest the state has witnessed in years. He ran on a law and order platform.

Double Joy

OYSTER BAY, Nov. 4—Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., running for Assembly on the Republican ticket was elected today over his Democratic opponent. This was a double joy, for earlier in the day a son was born at the Roosevelt home. This is is fourth child. It will be named Quentin, after Lt. Quentin Roosevelt, his brother, whose aeroplane was shot down in flames while fighting the Germans.

REPUBLICANS WIN OUT IN JEFFERSON

The Republican candidates went through with flying colors in Jefferson county, Lowry for sheriff at midnight had a commanding lead over Shields, the soldier candidate.

Holben for treasurer, and Starzell for register and recorder were going strong, with not much opposition in evidence.

Sibley and Mays were leading the Republican ticket for commissioner, with the two Democrats and the North on the Prohibition running a close race.

Children in India have to learn the multiplication table up to forty times forty, and this is further complicated by the introduction of fractional parts.

Dice were invented and extensively used for gambling purposes at least fifteen hundred years before the Christian era.

CONTEST IN JERSEY UNDECIDED

Clearfield county joined the rest of the country from Maine to California in its swing to safety and sanity and increased Republican majorities.

Despite the storm which lasted practically all afternoon, a total of about 11,000 votes were polled. About two-thirds of this total went to the Republican candidates while our Democratic friends succeeded in electing one Commissoner and one Auditor with the remainder.

DuBois rolled up the banner vote, more than 2100 good citizens exercising the right of suffrage. Adam Haag was re-elected Mayor and the City Council is entirely Republican.

Clearfield borough is at last safely anchored in the Republican column, the Republican county ticket carrying every ward in the town without a single break in the line.

For Justice of the Peace the old veteran, Squire B. O. Chappening was re-elected by a handsome majority over J. W. Watson.

William P. Sheeder and C. G. Johnson, both Republicans, were elected school directors.

The Democrats made their only gains on Council, electing F. S. Gilliland in the First; George M. Rosser and Ira Jay in the Second and John S. Chapin in the Third. The Republicans elected were: H. H. Pollin in the Third and C. I. McFarland in the Fourth.

There were 1397 votes polled in Clearfield.

Following is the vote on school director:

	1	2	3	4	Total
Johnson	145	196	226	129	[illegible]
Sheeder	160	220	162	128	[illegible]
Smith	139	205	132	96	[illegible]
Ammerman	101	166	199	94	417

The vote for the different candidates on the county ticket with nine of the ninety-seven districts yet to report is as follows:

County Treasurer

Rumberger, R.	6169
McCloskey, D.	3553
Rumberger's majority	2616

Prothonotary

Ralston, R.	5646
Scollins, D.	4768
Ralston's majority	878

Register and Recorder

Chase, R.	6343
Millberg, D.	3863
Chase's majority	2479

County Commissioners

Dale, R.	5502
Weimer, R.	5473
Farrell, D.	3980
Goodlander, D.	3328

Two Republicans and two Democratic governors were chosen in yesterday's election, incomplete returns today indicated. In a fifth state, Maryland, the contest was close with both sides claiming victory.

Governor Coolridge, Republican, was re-elected in Massachusetts over Long by an overwhelming majority. The Boston police strike denounced by Coolridge figured prominently in the campaign.

Edwin T. Morrow, Republican defeated Black, Democrat, in Kentucy in a hot campaign in which the ratification of the peace treaty in its present form was an issue.

Mississippi elected Lee M. Russell, Democrat, with the usual Democratic majority.

Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, opposed to prohibition, apparently defeated Bugsbee, Republican, for governor in New Jersey. Both sides claim victory today.

In Maryland, Kintzie, Democrat, carried Baltimore by [illegible] Republicans claimed their candidate Harry Nite, had offset [illegible] in the country districts.

New York City in the municipal and county elections defeated Tammany candidates for a majority of the important offices.

Ohio drys triumphed over the wets and ratified the [illegible] prohibition amendment.

TRINITY METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE BIG SOCIAL EVENT

The "post-Hallowe'en" social held at the Trinity Methodist church last last evening was attended by a la ge number of the young people, who had a perfectly jolly time. The Sunday School rooms were attractively decorated, Knight's Saxophone orchestra furnished the music, and a varied program of games were carried out, in which everyone joined heartily. At ten o'clock light refreshments were served.

Some of the leading spirits responsible for the success of the affair were Miss Elizabeth Bain, Miss Dorothy Woodward, Miss Jesteen Ellenberger, Howard Stewart, John Hess, John Graham and Alfred Hess.

The Epworth League of Trinity church is a live young people's organization. The devotional meetings are held at 6:30 P. M. every Sunday evening. Miss Woodward will be in charge of the servce next Sunday.

The district convention of the U. B. Christian Endeavor will be held in the U. B. church, Seventh and Dorey streets, Thursday, November 6th. Afternoon session opens at 7:30. Able speakers will give addresses at both sessions and the Round Table discussions will be very helpful.

It will be worth your while t attend.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passages scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Clearfield testimony.

Lewis E. Wise, 404 River street, says: "Some time ago, while working in the mines, I was caught with a pain in my back. I couldn't do any lifting or anything that caused me to bend over. I had no appetite and the pains in my limbs were severe. Doan's Kidney Pills being highly recommended to me, I began their use and I noticed a change in my condition before taking half a box. On finishing just two boxes of Doan's the pains in my back and lameness were all gone."

Machinery for New Laboratory Installed at Colorado Agricultural College.

(By O. V. ADAMS, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins Colo.)

The experiment station of the Colorado Agricultural college at Fort Collins has just completed the installation of the machinery for a new laboratory for the testing of road materials and is now fully equipped to make all the standard mechanical tests on rock, broken stone, slag, gravel, sand and top soil.

The laboratory has been installed for the purpose of aiding the people of the state in their road-building problems. No charge is made for the testing of any material; the sample must, however, be of sufficient size to enable complete investigations to be made.

The first systematic attempts to determine the value of rock for road building purposes by means of laboratory tests were made in France in 1878, and the excellence of the French roads can no doubt be partly attributed to the selection of the best available materials for their construction.

Stretch of Improved Road Between Cripple Creek and Canon City, Colo.

In 1893, a road material testing laboratory was established by the Massachusetts highway commission, with the late Logan W. Page in charge. This work has developed until today there are many such laboratories throughout the United States, and road engineers are more and more coming to realize the value of such tests and to specify that material used in road construction shall measure up to certain established standard requirements.

INJURY DONE TO GOOD ROADS

Autos and Motor Trucks Do More Harm Than Steel-Tired Vehicles on Account of Speed.

There is more damage done to the roads now by autos and motor trucks than steel-tired vehicles ever did, for the reason of greater speed of motor vehicles and their drivers have the same fool tracking habit the horse drivers always had. Driving in the same tracks never damaged steel tires, but it is the destruction of the roads and rubber tires. The motor vehicle is worse for the roads than horse rigs on account of greater speed. The reason running in a track is damaging to rubber tires, is a sharp rock will be set in the side of the track with the sharpest corner out to nip a piece out of every tire, and sharp rocks cannot dodge or bounce out of the bottom of the track, but cut holes in the tires and break the fabric, causing the so called stone bruises and rim cuts, even on properly inflated tires.

"There's a Reason"

PREVENT LOSSES OF POTATO CROP

Avoid Cutting and Bruising of Tubers While in Field and in Shipping.

CAREFUL GRADING IS URGED

Cars Should Be Loaded With Aim for Ventilation and to Guard Against Shifting About and Breakage of Containers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Potato growers can prevent much of the losses of the new crop in transit and in the markets by avoiding cutting and bruising the tubers in the field and by not allowing the potatoes to remain exposed to the sun after digging.

Careful grading will increase the growers' profits and will make a sure and more constant market. It is important to keep the skin—the protecting cover of the potato—intact. In handling new potatoes this requires great care. Cars should be loaded according to a definite plan, which provides for ventilation and prevents shifting about and breakage of the containers.

Keep Skin Whole.

The majority of fungous diseases that cause decay of potatoes and other vegetables can not develop when the skin is free from cuts and bruises. Careful handling is fundamental, therefore, for the prevention of deterioration and waste. In this respect probably no single factor is equal in importance to proper handling in the field and none is more generally ignored by the average grower or laborer.

As a result of extensive investigations conducted by the department of agriculture at the more important shipping points the investigators recommend the double-headed, ventilated barrel as the most satisfactory package for shipping new potatoes. If properly made this container is sufficiently strong to carry the weight of its contents and fully protect the potatoes. The investigations show that there is much less breakage in cars where the barrels are loaded on end than when loaded on the bilge. Records show that in practically every car loaded on the bilge without head liners from 3 to 30 or more barrels are crushed and broken upon arrival at the market. Cloth-top barrels do not protect their contents as effectively as those having double heads. Slat or veneer barrels are too flimsy. All barrels used in shipping potatoes should conform to the specifications of the United States standard barrel.

Sacks Often Fail.

Although sacks are used extensively for shipping storage potatoes they do not sufficiently protect new potatoes from cuts and bruises and make adequate ventilation difficult. However, sacks cost less than barrels and are frequently used. Sacks should not be of greater capacity than 120 pounds. In loading sacked potatoes set them upright one-half of the sacks leaning against one side of the car and the other half against the other side, thus leaving a V-shaped space in the center for ventilation. Two layers of sacks may be placed on top of these, being placed flat with the ends toward the side of the car.

Good types of ventilated box cars and stock cars are suitable for shipping new potatoes. When the tubers are sound and of good quality 30,000 pounds is a safe load. Double-deck stock cars are used in some sections and can be safely loaded by placing one solid layer of sacks or barrels standing upright on each deck. If stock cars are used, it is advisable to line the sides with heavy building paper to protect from sun and weather. The net weight or dry measure should be marked on all containers.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with dull pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

A Service for the Well-Groomed Woman

Nothing of late has sounded more pleasantly in the ears of women than the message the boys have been bringing back with them from across the seas.

"In dress and personal charm," they have said with one accord, "No women can match our own."

You owe it to the nation to preserve that charm, but need we tell you that laborious work over the washtub is a detriment to the woman who would continue to be well-groomed?

Our laundry service should attract you, therefore, for two most important reasons:

We can give to your own apparel all the delightful cleanliness and smart finish that is implied by the words "well-groomed."

And we can help you add to your own personal charm by removing from your home the heavy labor of the family washing.

Try our efficient, simple way—call us up and have us send our driver for your family washing.
